

TORINA In ògiu de olia

PORTESCUSI

With this product we would like to tell you the story of our island and its deep roots of traditional fishing, in particular - tuna fishing.

The Spanish Tower - Portoscuso

•

The Spanish Tower, the undiscussed icon of Portoscuso. It was for a long time the protector of the tuna-fishing nets and tuna fishers.

It was built by King Philip II once the enterprising merchant Pietro Porta, back in 1554, returning from one of his many trips, saw a great opportunity in this place.

The consistent passage of tuna along the Sardinian coasts was the basis for building the first fixed tuna traps on our island and, in our case, the very famous tuna trap of Capo Altano in Portoscuso.

•

•
Sa limba sarda
•

•

Since this is a product exposed to visibility on a large scale, overcoming the local context, it was considered appropriate to standardize the translation according to the orthographic criteria established by the

Limba Sarda Comuna

The Sardinian language is adopted in the administrative sphere with Resolution of the Council of the RAS n. 16/14 of 18.4.2006 and now consolidated also in various sectors of Sardinian literature (didactic, technical, novels) based on certain rules and of common interpretation, is currently considered the most convenient tool for presenting Sardinian as a unitary language.

•

www.althunnus.com